Bees and Beekeepers Keep Busy During The Spring

By Brittany Jacks
MSU Ag Communications

Spring is a busy time for bees and beekeepers, as longer days and warmer weather bring the first flowers into bloom.

Jeff Harris, Mississippi State University Extension bee specialist and Mississippi Agricultural and Forestry Experiment Station researcher, said bees were growing rapidly during the months of February and March.

"Bees are growing at a quick pace leading up to spring-time, especially in the southern third of the state," he said. "However, even in Starkville, if the weather is good, important spring plants bloom and provide the nutrition that bee colonies need to raise new bees."

During the winter, a colony will not produce new bees, and all colonies dwindle in size during this time. They begin to recover when maples, dandelions and henbit begin to bloom in February.

"If March is warm, tons of flowers bloom, and colony growth can be explosive," he said.

"This is a critical time for bee colonies to recover from the winter and grow to be strong enough to secure a honey crop."

Harris said it is essential for beekeepers to make sure that their bees do not starve during February and early March.

"Beekeepers can feed sugar solutions or candy to save bees from starving if necessary," he said. "They can also feed them protein supplements to help stimulate the raising of new bee larvae. This helps jump-start bee growth in the spring."

The figures for 2014 are not yet available, but Harris said they should be comparable to 2013.

"In 2013, about 18,000 colonies of bees produced, on average, about 118 pounds of honey per colony for a total yield of 2.124 million pounds at a total value of $3.759 million," he said. "Mississippi beekeepers averaged about $1.77 per pound of honey. Mississippi producers produce quite a bit more honey per colony than average because soybean honey production is a large contributor of the state's total honey production."

Harry Fulton, former state entomologist with the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce, said the winter of 2014-2015 has been fine for bees, but it could have been better.

"This winter would have been better if more days with the temperature above 55 degrees had occurred, allowing the bees to fly more," he said. "The weather through mid-March is critical. The population can drop drastically in February and March, when the older bees in the cluster begin dying. Winter is not over for beekeepers until the bees have young bees emerging to build up the population at this critical time -- a time when they can start flying and making a living gathering food so beekeepers do not have to feed them."

Fulton said the demand for bees has increased, which increases the need for bee breeders.

"Anyone willing to work in beekeeping can make a good living once he or she is established and set up with 500 or more colonies," he said. "My guess, based on my experience, is that a six-figure gross income is not out of the question for a commercial beekeeper."

Fulton said honey bees affect the economy in several different ways.

"Honey, beeswax, royal jelly and pollen are products of bee colonies," Fulton said. "However, the greatest value to our economy is from pollination of many crops for food and fiber. More than 100 crops are dependent on honey bees for varying degrees of pollination."

For the past five years, Mississippi has been the highest among the states in the pounds of honey produced per colony.

"In Mississippi, a big portion of our income in beekeeping is from the sale of honey-bees as package bees, nucleus starter hives, and queen honey bees to other beekeepers," he said.

From Our Kitchen To Yours

Honey—Nature's Sweetener

*****

PB & H Honey & Apple Sammie

8 ounces cream cheese, softened
1/3 cup honey
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 teaspoon cinnamon
8 thick slices whole wheat bread
1 green apple, thinly sliced
2 tablespoons sunflower seeds (or substitute your favorite nut)
1 cup peanut butter

In a medium bowl, beat cream cheese until fluffy. Add honey, vanilla extract and cinnamon; mix well. Spread 1 to 2 tablespoons of honey cream cheese mixture on 4 slices of bread. Top with apple slices, dividing evenly. Sprinkle with sunflower seeds. Spread 2 tablespoons of peanut butter on each of the remaining 4 slices of bread, and place face down on top of cream cheese and apple covered slices. Cut sandwiches into halves or quarters and serve.

Creamy Honey Sesame Dip for Vegetables

3/4 cup nonfat mayonnaise
1/4 cup rice vinegar
1/4 cup honey
3 tablespoons toasted sesame seeds
1 tablespoon grated fresh ginger root
1 small head of garlic, minced
3/4 teaspoon oriental sesame oil
1/8 teaspoon crushed red pepper flakes
Salt, to taste

Whisk together mayonnaise, vinegar and honey in small bowl. Add remaining ingredients; mix thoroughly. Dip may be stored tightly covered in refrigerator up to 1 week. Enjoy with fresh vegetables such as carrot sticks, broccoli, cucumbers and cherry tomatoes.

Honey-Kissed Fruit

1/4 cup honey
1 teaspoon grated fresh orange peel
2 fresh pears, pared, cored & halved
1 (5 1/4 -ounce) can pineapple chunks, drained
1 cup green grapes, halved
1 cup red grapes, halved

Blend honey and orange peel; set aside. Place pears in 4 microwave-safe serving glasses; drizzle with honey mixture. Cover each glass with plastic wrap; vent. Microwave at HIGH (100%) 3 minutes or until pears are tender. Combine pineapple and grapes. Divide evenly between servings and sprinkle over pears. Serve warm or cold.

Honey-Glazed Sweet Potato Chips

2 (about 1 1/4 pounds) sweet potatoes, peeled & thinly sliced
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
2 tablespoons honey
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon

Arrange potato slices in a single layer on a lightly oiled baking sheet with sides. Combine butter and honey in a small bowl; drizzle over the potatoes. Sprinkle with cinnamon. Broil 5 minutes; turn, broil just until tender, about 2 minutes.

Grandma's Honey Rice Pudding

1 cup rice
8 cups milk
2 cinnamon sticks
8 eggs
1 tablespoon vanilla
1 1/2 cups pure honey

Cook rice with 2 cups of water in a pot, covered over medium heat until water is evaporated and rice is cooked. Add milk and cinnamon to the rice, bring to a simmer and stir constantly. In a separate bowl, beat eggs and vanilla. While stirring eggs, slowly pour a cup of hot milk into the egg mixture. Add a second cup of hot milk into the egg mixture. This will bring up the temperature of the eggs without cooking them. Add warm egg mixture to the pot, stirring constantly. Add 100% pure honey in the pot, stirring frequently until milk thickens. Allow to cool and enjoy.

Honey Coffee Cooler

2 tablespoons instant coffee granules*
1/4 cup boiling water
1/4 cup honey
1 cinnamon stick
1/4 cup cold water
Ice cubes
1 quart milk
Cinnamon sticks for garnish

Dissolve coffee granules in boiling water in medium bowl; add honey and mix well. Add cinnamon stick and stir in cold water; refrigerate. Fill 4 tall glasses with ice cubes. Add 3 tablespoons of the coffee concentrate and fill each glass with 1 cup of milk. *Substitute 1/4 cup extra-strong brewed coffee for instant coffee and boiling water, if desired.

March Madness, April Bliss

By Lise Foy, Director
MS Agriculture & Forestry Museum

This is the time of year that can make us ‘mad’ with anticipation of spring. It seems like on any given day during this time of year that it could be almost any season in Mississippi. It is hot, warm, cold, very cold, grey and blue, and then, it rains and rains.

As the dark gets shorter and light gets longer, we all feel hope and release from the cabin fever the experts now call seasonal affective disorder. I have felt this overwhelming anticipation for sunshine every year of my life as far back as I can remember. As a little kid, I would be swimming in the cold creek and making mud pies; as a teenager, I would sunbathe on a flannel sheet; and as an adult, I still foolishly relish the first sunburn on my shoulders.

Do you ever wonder how things in nature ‘feel’ about the rollercoaster weather? Trees begin to bud, bulbs begin to bloom, and bees begin to seek nectar to begin the process of making honey. It is a time of renewal, and you can almost hear Mendelssohn’s “Song of Spring.” Then, one day it reaches 80 degrees, and by sundown, it is below freezing. And, the needle on the record scratches to a stop.

We must be patient. Spring will come. The flowers will bloom. We will plant our gardens. The bees will make more honey.

Mississippi ranks 28th in the nation in honey production and produces about 2.25 million pounds of honey each year. Each pound of honey requires the nectar from around two million flowers and more than 55,000 miles of flight! During a bee’s entire life, it usually only makes about one and a half teaspoons of honey.

The beehives at the Ag Museum are monitored and worked by members of the Central Mississippi Beekeepers Association. The honey produced by our bees is for sale in the General Store.

April 1st and 2nd are Spring Farm Days at the Ag Museum. Special activities, from 9:00 a.m. until noon, will include plowing demonstrations, garden tours, farm life demonstrations at the Farmhouse, and the opportunity to milk Cloverbelle the cow.

April 4th is the Annual Mississippi Egg Marketing Board’s Easter Egg Hunt at the Ag Museum. Along with old-fashioned games, egg dying, and the egg hunt, visitors will have the opportunity to participate in planting day at the Ag Museum.

Also, during the month of April, we are giving away Dixie Queen Watermelon Seeds. We invite you to participate with us and practice your gardening skills by planting the seeds with your family, your school, or community. Easter weekend is the time to plant watermelons for maturity by July 4.

This is an interactive project too! Take pictures of your watermelon patch from planting, growing, and harvesting. Share with us at www.facebook.com/msagmuseum. At our 2nd Annual Country Fair on July 11, we will showcase the largest watermelons; prizes included!

I am looking forward to planting a garden this year with my girls. Katy is already into making mud pies in the mud puddles of March. Here’s to not too many April showers so we can get on to the May flowers and the bees can do their work.

The Ag Museum is located at 1150 Lakeland Drive in Jackson and is open Monday through Saturday from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. In addition to our gallery and exhibit spaces, the Ag Museum also has room for your event, whether it’s a meeting, a wedding or other special event. Call (601) 432-4500 for information.

If you would like to make a donation, make checks payable to the Mississippi Agriculture Museum Foundation, 1150 Lakeland Drive, Jackson, MS 39216.

The beehives at the Ag Museum are monitored and worked by members of the Central Mississippi Beekeepers Association. The honey produced by our bees is for sale in the General Store.

This timber report contains aggregated individual timber sale stumpage data. Many variables, such as raw material demand, mill inventories, buyer competition, quality, topography and weather, play key roles in determining local prices. Pine Sawtimber prices are based upon a 14-inch Diameter-at-Breast-Height (DBH) log size. Pine Chip N Saw prices are based upon a 10-inch DBH log size. The stumpage prices shown here are reprinted with permission from the Timber Owner Market Guide; a bi-monthly publication of Forest2Market (www.forest2market.com).

Water Conservation Practices Can Provide Great Benefits

By Brittany Jacks
MSU Ag Communications

The benefits for conserving water for farmers are the reduction of costs and the retaining of a higher yield, and Mississippi State University is promoting tools to help them achieve that goal.

Jason Krutz, an irrigation expert at the MSU Delta Research and Extension Center, said certain irrigation decisions can benefit the agricultural economy.

"We recommend that producers cut in half the water supply normally used," he said. "The profitability of corn is improved by $50 an acre, and soybean is improved by $10 an acre. If the farmers believe that they will not profit from conserving water, then they will not do it. Our job is to show them ways to profit from conservation."

Krutz, an irrigation specialist with the MSU Extension Service and researcher with the Mississippi Agricultural and Forestry Experiment Station, said he recommends three tools to help producers conserve water. These tools generally provide a 20-25 percent reduction of water usage, which saves around $10 dollars an acre.

"PHAUCET, Pipe Hole and Universal Crown Evaluation Tool, is a piece of software that tells farmers what size hole to poke in the piece of poly pipe so that the water is evenly distributed throughout the field," he said. "The second tool is surge irrigation, which cuts a field into two equal sections that alternate the water back and forth through poly pipes. This program helps prevent water from running out of the furrows in the field. The third tool is soil-moisture sensors, which tells the farmer when to irrigate and when not to."

Beth Baker, research associate with the MSU Forest and Wildlife Research Center, said Mississippi has abundant water resources, but in order to maintain these, the state should promote conservation and sustainable use.

"It has been documented that the level of the Mississippi River Valley Alluvial Aquifer is dropping," she said. "However, there is a lot of discussion about the longevity of water resources within the aquifer. Additionally, Mississippi gets an average 56 inches of rain per year. This gives Mississippi an excellent opportunity to capture and utilize surface waters."

Baker said the rate at which the aquifer recharges is not necessarily based on the amount of average rainfall.

"Only a percentage of surface water infiltrates ground water stores, as some soils have low permeability," she said. "According to certain research, less than 5 percent of precipitation becomes aquifer recharge, while other studies suggest that about 12 percent of precipitation becomes recharge."

Agricultural producers are not the only ones who can get involved in conservation practices.

"If you're not a farmer, you can do a number of things to conserve water," Baker said. "Be a smart consumer, and know how much water goes into the production of items used every day."

Baker said buying local food, planting a garden, or starting a community garden are other ways to conserve water.

"Grow drought-tolerant plants, so the rainfall will be a sufficient water source without additional irrigation," she said.

Mississippi NRCS Assistance for Water Conservation

By Kavanaugh Breazeale
Natural Resources
Conservation Service

The United States Department of Agriculture/Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) is currently accepting applications for the Mississippi Water Conservation Management Project (MWCMP) through the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP). Applications received by April 17, 2015, will be considered in the first ranking period for the MWCMP. There is no deadline for submission of an application.

The MWCMP is a voluntary conservation program that provides financial assistance to eligible owners and operators of irrigated agricultural land to address water conservation management resource concerns. The program will focus on using management practices to address serious conservation issues related to water quantity.

"This is an excellent opportunity to help our Mississippi producers voluntarily address the critical water supply concerns in the Mississippi Delta through this project", stated Kurt Readus, Mississippi NRCS

State Conservationist.

The MWCMP is only available in counties over the Mississippi River Valley Aquifer (MRVA). These delta counties include Bolivar, Coahoma, Humphreys, Issaquena, Leflore, Quitman, Sharkey, Sunflower, Tunica and Washington. The program is also available in certain portions of the bluff counties over the MRVA. These include portions of Carroll, Desoto, Grenada, Holmes, Panola, Tallahatchie, Tate, Warren and Yazoo.

Owners and operators of irrigated agricultural lands are eligible to apply for program benefits offered through the MWCMP. In order for a producer to be considered for financial assistance, the land associated with a program application must be located within the MRVA. Producers must also meet the EQIP eligibility requirements to receive financial assistance through this program.

Producers can apply for financial assistance by contacting the NRCS office in their local USDA Service Center. To locate an office, please go to <http://offices.sc.egov.usda.gov/locator/app>. For more information, visit our website at <http://www.nrcs.usda.gov/wps/portal/nrcs/site/ms/home/>.

Flower Bed Planning and Preparation

By Lelia Scott Kelly, Ph.D.
Horticulture Specialist
MSU Extension Service

Plan flower beds carefully. Consider the mature heights of various plantings so you can see and enjoy each group. Color combinations are also important. Plant pleasing blends as well as suitable contrasts. Do not plant too close. Take into consideration the ultimate width of each plant so that plants do not become too crowded. Try new types and cultivars to add interest to your plantings.

Prepare flowerbeds carefully. Good drainage is necessary to have beautiful flowers. Work beds thoroughly and deeply. Incorporate organic matter, limestone, and fertilizer into flowerbeds.

Remember to protect established roots and sprouts of perennials growing in flowerbeds, which will also be planted with annuals. Either work around perennials or lift them, work the bed, and reset them.

After the danger of frost has passed and the ground begins to warm, plant all tender flower plants like ageratum, begonia, coleus, geranium, impatiens, marigold, petunia, periwinkle and zinnia. Tender warm season vines like moonflower, morning glory, scarlet runner bean, and hyacinth bean can be planted after the ground warms and all danger of frost has passed.
